3. JCS-DIA Orientation

One of the largest military groups to date--58 senior officers and civilians--attended the eighth running of the semi-annual JCS-DIA Orientation at Headquarters on 26 and 27 September. In addition to the welcome and initial briefing on the Agency's overall mission by the Executive Director-Comptroller, members of the class had the special opportunity in the final session of asking over a dozen questions of the Director. Oral comments by a large number of officers following the Director's appearance and written statements in the critiques, submitted by two-thirds of the class, indicate that the visitors were well-satisfied with the content, length, timing, and administration of the two-day program. "Outstanding.... difficult to improve upon.... well-done" were frequent comments. One visitor from SAC Headquarters wrote: "From the time allotted, I don't think you could have done a better job. I have never heard as many outstanding speakers in a two-day period of time as I have here...." While Mr. Helms, Mr. Duckett, and Dr. Kent came in for special praise, the visitors seemed to be impressed with the top level calibre of all the speakers, and the high degree of professionalism displayed by the Agency. "It's a compliment to any group," one officer noted, "when the Agency uses its top people for presentations."

to make extensive use of closed circuit television for instructional purposes. Arrangements have been made to have two members of the [REDACTED] staff visit Ft. Eustis and discuss the matter of "educational television" with a civilian employee who is considered to be an authority in this field.

5. Defense Civilian Career Executive Institute

Plans for the first class of the Defense Civilian Career Executive Institute beginning January 1968 were deferred when Congressional funds were stricken for this fiscal year. To rejustify its establishment a study group was constituted with Lieutenant General Shomburg (now retired, but former Commandant of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces) as Study Group Chairman. The group is scheduled to present its findings by 1 November 1967.

These are the probable findings:-- The Defense Civilian Career Executive Institute, with Army acting as Executive Agency, hopefully will begin in January 1969. There will be three instructional departments: Executive Environment, Management Science, and Management Systems. Classes will be limited to 100 DoD personnel, to include a token number of military officers. Civilians will be in grade GS-13 and -14. The class length will approximate three months; there will be two classes yearly. Instruction will be given in leased space until the Forrestal Building is completed.
